

General Notes

- ① Please exercise due care when handling content related to intellectual property, advanced technologies, or sensitive information. While the Society will make every effort to limit participants and enforce restrictions, it is not possible to completely eliminate the risk of unauthorized use.
- ② Presenters bear full responsibility for any copyright infringement related to their presentation. Please refrain from using videos, images (including figures, charts, or illustrations), or audio owned by others without permission. Proper citation of references is acceptable.
- ③ The program will be published on the official symposium website. Please note that requests to change presentation times after the program has been finalized cannot be accommodated.
- ④ Photography, video recording, and audio recording of keynote lectures, oral presentations, poster presentations, or any other research sessions are strictly prohibited without prior permission from the organizers.
